

December 16, 2011

Howard J. Bashman, Esq.
Law Offices of Howard J. Bashman
2300 Computer Avenue
Suite G-22
Willow Grove, PA 19090

Dear Mr. Bashman:

I have been a loyal fan of your law blog, How Appealing, for many years. Inspired by one of your posts in February 2006 concerning judges who cast a vote and then pass away before a decision is issued, I wrote a novel entitled DEATH TO THE BONE. The novel is available as an e-book in Amazon's Kindle store and can be accessed via the Kindle app. on I-phones and I-pads. The cost is only $0.99, and a portion of any profits I receive will go to a charity for disadvantaged children. Here is a synopsis:

A Desperate President - A Rogue Assassin In The Capitol - The Supreme Court Hangs In The Balance.

After the Chief Justice is gunned down in his Supreme Court chambers, aging FBI Agent Ted Bishop postpones his hard-earned retirement plans to track the assassin and becomes a target himself. But he soon discovers that the assassin has bigger prey in his sights – the President of the United States. Bishop's only hope of preventing the President's murder from a deadly nerve agent stolen from top secret government laboratories may lie with an unsuspecting blind woman who has decided to end her own life. Set against the backdrop of today's divisive political climate, Death To The Bone is a thriller that will keep the pages turning until the final, startling ending.

In the event you have a Kindle or can access Kindle through some other device, I thought you might like to take a look. I enclose a $1 because I would not want you to pay for accessing the novel. If I were fortunate enough to find an agent and a publisher, I intend to mention you in the acknowledgments (subject to your permission, of course).

Best regards,

Very truly yours,

DAVID A. WOLLIN

DAW/cv

Enclosure

593690_1